In December 2019 unexplained Pneumonia (later named as corona virus disease 2019 or COVID- 19) is a novel respiratory virus emerged from Wuhan city, Hubei, China, reported to be transmitted by animal-to-human and human-to-human interaction. The viral outbreak is a pandemic causing in human deaths in enormous numbers. The progress of the epidemic follows an exponential growth in cases. COVID 19 causes a diversity of symptoms in people who are infected, and not all people infected with COVID 19 will have the identical symptoms. Fever, dry cough, shortness of breath, fatigue or body aches are some of the most common symptoms appearing 2-14 days after the exposure, however, some people have experienced headaches, abdominal pain, diarrhoea and sore throat as well, although some patients may not develop symptoms until later. Asymptomatic individual cases were also found which can be a main issue of concern with respect to being extension into transmission chain of virus 1.

Infection is the entering of the host organism bodily tissues by diseases causing organisms their duplication and the reaction of the host tissue to these organisms and the toxins. The infections are caused by the micro organisms such as virus, prions bacteria, viroids and larger organisms like parasites and fungi. Acute infection considered by sudden onset, rapid development and often with severe symptoms. The chronic infections characterized by delayed by onset and slow progression. Corona virus are a large family of severe stranded RNA respiratory viruses their name is owed to the crown shaped tips present on their surface. Corona viruses are divided into genera, including  $\alpha$ -CoV and  $\beta$ -CoV and are able to infect mammals, while  $\gamma$  and  $\delta$  - CoV tend to infect birds, previously six CoVs have been identified as human susceptible viruses, among the  $\alpha$  - CoVs HCoV V - 229E and HCoV - NL 63 and  $\beta$  - CoVs HCoV - HKU - 1 and HCoV, OC43, which have low pathogenicity, causing mild respiratory symptoms similar to common cold. The other two known as  $\beta$ - CoVs SARS - CoV ( severe acute respiratory syndrome coronavirus) and MERS - CoV ( mild east respiratory syndrome coronavirus) leads to severe and potentially fatal respiratory tract infection 2.

The survey is predominantly important with respect to India because the country has wide-ranging diversity of culture, traditions, literacy rates, topography and climate. The survey will be directed as a part of an awareness - creating exercise as well as it gives a chance to people to introspect all aspects of their daily life. Social distancing is an important preventive measure compelling government to implement lockdown, leading to slow down of global economy. India is a vastly populated, developing country of population with extensive difference of socio-economic status. Increased in percentage of illiteracy rate, overcrowded living areas and in equal access to natural resources that is vital for healthy life are observed not only in villages, but also in metropolitan cities like Delhi and Mumbai. Social distancing is not a general practice. Festivals, rituals, ceremonies and general gatherings are part of Indian societal framework. It is constantly challenging to bring changes in the cultural societal framework 3.

This chapter deals with the statistical analyzed based on the objectives of the study. The data was collected from 100 general people between 20-60 years in Kakutur and Venkatachalam at Nellore, A.P. The data analyzed by using descriptive and inferential statistics.

ABSTRACT
"AN EXPLORATIVE STUDY TO ANALYZE THE COPING STRATEGIES ADOPTED BY THE PATIENTS RECOVERED FROM COVID-19 AND THEIR CAREGIVERS AT SELECTED AREAS IN NELLORE, ANDHRA PRADESH"

INTRODUCTION: Caregivers may experience varying reactions during a crisis such as the COVID-19 pandemic. It is important to remember that a variety of factors will influence how a person feels including personal characteristics (physical health conditions, pre-existing mental health conditions) and other vulnerabilities (such as job, finances, family). Crisis events that are shorter in duration are generally less traumatic than those that are long-lasting. The rapidly evolving and prolonged situation of the pandemic has the potential to add additional stress.

METHODOLOGY: cross sectional research design was used for the present study to analyze the coping strategies adopted by the patients recovered from covid-19 and their caregivers. Non-Probability convenience sampling technique was used to select 320 patients recovered from covid-19 and 320 their caregivers. Checklist was used to assess the coping strategies in patients recovered from covid-19 and their caregivers. For Each one 30 minute taken to assess the coping strategies. Per day approximately from 17-18 patients recovered from covid-19 and their caregivers data was collected. Data was analyzed and tabulated according to the objectives of the study by using descriptive and inferential statistics.

RESULTS: There 30(9%) had low, 74(23%) had medium and 216(28%) had high for patients recovered from covid-19 and in caregivers 74(23%) had medium and 246(77%) had high coping strategies. The mean value of patients recovered from covid-19 was 60.09 and standard deviation is 19.68 and for their caregivers 65.48 and standard deviation 13.70. There was all significant variables in patients recovered from covid-19 except on going medications. And for caregivers all had significant variables except gender, type of family and type of diet.

Conclusion: The findings of the study concluded that patients recovered from covid-19 and their care caregivers were had high coping strategies of 70% hence there is a need to improve their coping strategies for both caregivers and patients recovered from covid-19.

"There comes a time when even the best doctors are powerless... It makes more sense to prevent metabolic disease through prevention. And this is where individual involvement in making effective lifestyle changes becomes important.

Metabolic syndrome is the accumulation of several disorders that together increase the risk of developing atherosclerotic cardiovascular disease, insulin resistance, 4,444 diabetes, obesity, hypertension, and vascular complications. blood and nerve such as cerebrovascular stroke.

Metabolic disorder becomes a syndrome if the person has one of three things: waist circumference greater than 40 inches in men and 35 inches in women, high triglyceride levels of 150 mg/dL of blood or more, 40 mg/dL in men or less than 50 mg per dL in women, high fasting blood sugar of 100 mg per dL or higher, systolic blood pressure readings 130 mmHg or higher, and/or diastolic 85 Metabolic syndrome usually appears in middle age after a long period of exposure to unhealthy lifestyles such as frequent smoking, overeating, alcoholism, etc. The metabolic syndrome is a complex disorder and an emerging clinical challenge. <sup>1</sup>

Metabolic syndrome is also known as Syndrome X, Insulin Resistance Syndrome, Cardiac Metabolic Syndrome, Raven's Syndrome, and Metabolic Syndrome. The term metabolic syndrome dates back to at least the late 1950s, but various associations of risk factors with diabetes have been documented as early as the 1920s. closely related to overweight or obesity in the city and
